JSfirm.com Responds to Helicopter Pilot and Mechanic Shortage

Roanoke, Texas (March 13, 2018) - JSfirm.com, an aviation job website, has reached a milestone of helicopter professionals in their job seeker database. Jeff Richards, Operations Manager for JSfirm.com, said "Our proprietary database, to date, includes 51,669 helicopter pilots and mechanics." He continued, "This total is dynamic and is growing every day, and this does not account for the hundreds of thousands of guest visitors on our website each month, or the other 17 categories of professionals."

Richards went on to say "The quantity of aviation professionals in our database, coupled with the sheer number of daily visitors, is going to be paramount in helping companies find qualified professionals in the coming years."

A study conducted by the University of North Dakota in partnership with Helicopter Foundation International and HAI projects the shortage of helicopter pilots (7,649) and aviation technicians (40,613) in the U.S. between 2018 and 2036.

JSfirm.com offers online training and tools to attract and build a hiring pipeline of helicopter professionals. Contact them directly at 724-547-6203 or visit www.jsfirm.com.
