JSfirm.com Presents Aviation Mechanic Student Award

Roanoke, Texas (April 29, 2022) - JSfirm.com recently awarded an Aviation Mechanic Student scholarship during the Aerospace Maintenance Competition (AMC) in Dallas, Texas. The award is provided to current or recent aviation maintenance students. Monetary Awards may be used towards the purchase of tools, tuition or other education-related expenses.

Jonathan Roberts is the 2022 JSfirm.com Aviation Mechanic Student Award recipient. Jonathan is a retired veteran, working full time and studying Aircraft Maintenance Technology at Columbus State Community College where he holds a 4.0 GPA. Jonathan expressed in his essay, "I'm pursuing my AMT certificate for several reasons. I want to do my part to keep general aviation safe and as affordable as possible for the private pilot and airplane owners. I also intend to pursue volunteer opportunities in my area to restore and preserve historical airplanes."

Outside of work and school, he is a member of the Central Ohio Chapter of the Project Management Institute, the Airplane Owners and Pilots Association, the Experimental Aircraft Association, Professional Aviation Maintenance Association, and a Service Provider for his local FAA Safety Team.

Joel Meanor, Managing Partner of JSfirm.com, said, "Having the chance to present the JSfirm.com scholarship in person during the AMC Award Ceremony was incredible." He continued, "The atmosphere was electrifying and it was exciting to see the passion come from all teams, sponsors and AMC staff."
